San Jose, California - Think of it as Project Runway goes a little trashy. And a lot recycled! Tapestry Arts presents the first annual Trash Art Fashion Show and Contest on Sunday, September 6, at 12:45 PM in Plaza de Cesar Chavez Park, Downtown San Jose.

Aspiring designers and artists aged 9 to 18 are encourage to sign up by Thursday, August 20. Contestants will then create clothing using trash and recycled materials they will model during the show. The results are expected to wow the huge Sunday crowd and earn awards for the best designs.

Tapestry's Trash Art Fashion Show is sponsored by West Valley Collection and Recycling and Green Team of San Jose. Information and entry forms are available on line at www.tapestryarts.org or by calling 408-494-3592.

Tapestry Arts Festival is supported, in part, through a grant from the City of San Jose. Tapestry Arts is a not for profit organization.
